Congress Split on Quemoy, Matsu Policy Widens

Democrats Step Up Attacks On Eisenhower

Sen. Morse Proposal Is Denounced By Sen. Knowland

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Democratic-Republican split over President Eisenhower's policy toward Quemoy and Matsu Islands was widening today.

Democrats stepped up their charges that the administration is "fumbling and faltering" and pushing the nation toward a shooting war in the Formosa Straits. More and more they directed their fire at Mr. Eisenhower himself.

Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-N.C.), in his maiden Senate speech Friday, labeled as "planned confusion" the administration's refusal to say whether this country would fight to defend Quemoy and the Matsus if they are attacked by Red China.

He said the confusion has brought the nation to the brink of war and the President alone is responsible.

At Chapel Hill, N. C., Friday night, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), blasted the administration for "fumbling and faltering" in its handling of the Quemoy and Matsu situation. He said the United States has lost its objective in international relations in the "twisting and turning" of presidential, State Department and GOP senatorial pronouncements.

Humphrey and Sens. Russell B. Long (D-La.) and Herbert Lehman (D-N.Y.), joined Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) Friday in sponsoring a resolution that would force the President to make clear that this country would not fight to defend Quemoy and the Matsus. It called for a United Nations-supervised evacuation of the Chinese Nationalists from the island.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) denounced the Morse proposal. He urged senators to think seriously before "giving the impression of deep divisions in our government."

Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-N.D.) attacked Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) for his charges that high administration officials are "plotting" for war. Burdick, without naming Kefauver by name, said the charges resembled "valuable service" to Communist Russia. He said the statement is "precisely what Molotov and the other representatives of the Soviets have been saying since the end of World War II."

Kefauver later replied: "All one has to do to see that some civilian and military leaders are pressing for a course that would involve the United States in war over Quemoy and Matsu is to read their war statements in the daily newspapers."

Edward A. Hayes, Former Legion Commander, Dies

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Edward A. Hayes, 63, national commander of the American Legion in 1953, died Friday of a heart condition.

Hayes saw service in both world wars. He was outspoken against communism and his speeches in the 1930s warned of the dangers of Russian aggression. Last spring Hayes ran for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, but lost the candidacy to Joseph T. Meek, who in turn was defeated by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.).

Born in Morrisville, Ill., he was graduated from St. Louis University with law as his profession. He lived for a time at Decatur, Ill.

Surviving are his wife and four daughters.

Memorial funeral services will be conducted here Sunday by the American Legion. Honorary pallbearers include Gov. William Stratton, Mayor Martin Kennelly of Chicago, Illinois State Treasurer Warren Wright, and former Illinois governors Adlai Stevenson and John Stettin.

Grade School Band Receives First Superior Rating in Contest

The Harrisburg grade school band, under the direction of W. W. Chunn, received a first superior rating in the second day of the district music contest held at the Junior high school in Marion.

The soloists and ensembles were judged Thursday, and the grade school bands, Friday.

The name of Rita Davenport who won a first superior rating in twirling Thursday was unintentionally omitted in the contest story in yesterday's Register.

Arrest Soldier For Questioning In Girl's Death

DETROIT (U.P.)—Pvt. Lloyd R. Freeman, 20, Espanola, N. M., held for investigation of rape after admitting he took indecent liberties with a young girl, was questioned today in connection with the assault-slashing of 7-year-old Barbara Gaca.

Police arrested the soldier Friday night after a worried father discovered his semi-nude daughter in an abandoned barracks with Freeman.

Freeman, stationed with an anti-aircraft company in Detroit, took off from guard duty and gave three children a ride in his car. He returned to his guard post at the barracks with only the girl, police said.

Roger Emish, 38, the girl's father, began looking for his daughter when she failed to return home. Her playmates told him that she was with the soldier.

Police said Freeman admitted under questioning that he had taken "indecent liberties" with the 7-year-old girl after partially undressing her.

An examination revealed that the girl had not been raped, authorities said.

A newspaper clipping with a picture of Barbara Gaca was found in Freeman's pockets. He refused to answer any questions about the rape-slashing of the girl.

Homicide detectives assigned to finding the girl's murderer continued the slow, tedious process of "checking out" some 250 tips which have flooded police headquarters since her stabbing and ravished body was found Thursday.

Two Great Publishers Pass On

(An Editorial)

In the deaths of Joseph Pulitzer, editor and publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Col. Robert Rutherford McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, the world has suffered a greater loss than many of its people may well realize.

These two great newspapermen, whose attitudes, philosophies and approach to their duties were as divergent as east and west, lived and worked in and evaluated the events of some of the greatest and some of the most terrible years of the world's history.

Pulitzer, a liberal, succeeded his father in directing the destinies of the Post-Dispatch to make it one of the country's leading newspapers—one recognized as such by newspapermen as well as the public. More retiring than his fellow publisher McCormick, he was less in the public eye. Disabled by almost total lack of sight, he nevertheless directed his energies in building up a staff of workers who were ceaseless in their efforts to keep the public informed, to praise the good and to root out the bad in the St. Louis community, neighboring Illinois and in the nation's capital.

Col. McCormick was as conservative as Mr. Pulitzer was liberal. He used different methods. Often his paper editorialized in its news columns as well as on its editorial page. He was a bitter opponent of "one world," a midwestern strong nationalist. His paper, self-styled "the world's greatest," was almost that in circulation, in influence and in business success. He was seldom on the winning side in his crusades, but he was a strong minority contestant whose influence was recognized and respected.

The principal point is that both kept their readers informed, and that is the keystone of a successful democracy.

OIL REPORT:

Three Oil Wells Completed, Three Dry, Abandoned in Eldorado Field

From Jerry Robertson's Tri-State Oil Report

W. C. McBride's C. H. Burnett No. 2, SEC NE NW, 15-8s-7e, made an oil well in the Waltersburg during the period ending March 31, initial production 960 barrels of oil per day on flow after hydraulic fracturing.

McBride's E. Glascock No. 1, SEC SE SW, 10-8s-7e, also made a well with initial production 280 barrels per day on flow from the Waltersburg.

Delwood's Amos Wood No. 2, 438 feet south and 247 feet west of NE NW NW, 21-8s-7e, made a well in the Waltersburg with initial production of 502 barrels per day on flow.

Dry and abandoned were J. M. Roberts' J. M. Roberts No. 1, NEC NW SW, 21-8s-7e; the Davis-Mon hall Norval Bean No. 1, SW SE SW, 20-8s-7e; and the T. H. Corp. D. Woods No. 1, NEC NE NE, 29-8s-7e.

Other activity: D. B. Lesh's Virgil Manker No. 1, NW NE SE, 23-7s-5e (Tate) was drilling at 1928.

Paco Petroleum's Austin-Roberts No. 1, SEC NE NW, 4-8s-7e, was drilling at 2769.

McBride's Nona Carder No. 2, SW SE SW, 10-8s-7e, was cleaning out to test the Waltersburg.

Inland's Clyde Coker No. 2, NW SW SW, 11-8s-7e, was cleaning out to test the Waltersburg.

National Associated Petroleum's Erna Woolard No. 1, NEC NE SE, 12-8s-7e, was drilling at 1993.

Carter Oil Company's Ernest H. Patton No. 2, NW NE NW, 14-8s-7e, was waiting on cement to set seven inch pipes to 2133 to test the Waltersburg.

Walter Duncan's Cook-Speer No. 5, SW NE SW, 15-8s-7e, was on flow testing the Waltersburg. Perforated it flowed 57 barrels of oil in nine hours naturally. Fractured it flowed 75 barrels the first hour.

McBride's C. H. Burnett No. 3, SW NE NW, 15-8s-7e, was waiting on cement to set five and a half inch pipe in the Waltersburg.

McBride's Harry Flanders No. 2, SW NE NE, 15-8s-7e, was waiting on cement for a squeeze in the Waltersburg.

R. W. Portis' Zilphia Lassater No. 5, SW NE SW, 15-8s-7e, was cleaning out and testing the Waltersburg.

John Stelle Associates' Plumlee-Peabody Communized No. 1, NEC NW SW, 15-8s-7e, was drilling at 659 feet.

J. D. Turner's Aubrey Giles No. 1, NEC SW NW, 15-8s-7e, was drilling at 2381.

George and Wrathe's High School Community Unit No. 1, 310 feet south and 400 west of NEC NE SW SE, was drilling at 711.

Unique Solicitation Plan Announced In Cancer Drive

A unique plan by which every individual becomes a solicitor during the American Cancer Society's fund drive was put into action yesterday at the fund drive kick-off luncheon of the Saline County chapter of the society, held at the 45 Cafe.

Volunteer workers present at the luncheon were told of the plan, involving a series of round-robin letters, to be delivered from neighbor to neighbor, thereby giving everyone a chance to help with the drive. Each volunteer worker was assigned a territory, and the worker will proceed to visit a home in her territory, present the family with the letter, and urge them to give to their neighbor after they have subscribed a contribution. In this way every family acts as volunteer solicitors for the fund.

The Saline county quota in the fund drive is $3,000, at least part of which will be directly available to help fight cancer here in the county. It was brought out that 58 people died of cancer in Saline county in 1954, and that the chapter's Home Service division, which maintains a Loan Closet for surgical dressings, bedding, and sickroom facilities, dispensed 4900 surgical dressings to county cancer patients last year. The material for the dressings is supplied by the American Cancer Society, and the local Home Bureau units spent many hours making them last year, and will do so again this year.

Mrs. John Humm, chairman of the county chapter, has appointed the following officers to spearhead the current fund drive: Mrs. Tom Endicott, campaign chairman; Dr. Harold Brown, vice-chairman; Mrs. James Gaskins, chairman of public education; and John Richard Small, publicity. Mrs. Morris Skaggs is secretary-treasurer of the chapter.

George Klaffer Dies at Eldorado

George Klaffer, 71, died last night shortly before midnight at his home, 1300 Grant street in Eldorado.

He leaves his wife, Sheila; a brother, Andy Klaffer, Eldorado; and three sisters, Mrs. Louise Roy and Mrs. Elizabeth Bibb, both of Eldorado, and Mrs. Katie Grace, Harrisburg.

He was a member of the St. Mary's Catholic church in Eldorado, and funeral services will be held there Monday at 10 a. m. Father W. E. Hanagan will officiate, and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery at Equality.

The body will lie in state at the Martin funeral home.

Defense Dep't Admits Four A-Test Injuries

Were Received In Nevada During 1952-1953 Explosions

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Defense Department has conceded that four of its personnel received eye injuries, two of them possibly permanent, in atomic tests held in Nevada in 1952 and 1953.

The admission came Friday night in the face of previous flat government claims that no participant or observer had been injured during the tests.

The Defense Department disclosure was made after 12 days of prodding by reporters who sought official verification of a story published by the Harrisburg, Pa. Sunday Patriot-News and other newspapers.

Six Injuries Reported

The Patriot-News had said there were six injuries and that its information had been confirmed by two atomic experts and two former Army doctors. It said one officer was blinded in one eye.

A similar story in the Newark, N. J. Star-Ledger quoted Capt. Donald Kobley, former chief of the eye clinic at Ft. Hood, Tex., as saying "... six soldiers suffered retinal eye burns."

The Defense Department said that in 1952 a military observer received a retinal burn in one eye but "completely recovered."

An eye of a second observer, in 1953, was burned but he "suffered no apparent visual disability" and has been released from active duty the department said.

An officer in 1953 resigned from service after the atomic test. At that time, diagnosis showed choroiditis, or inflamed retina with third degree macula or spot from diseased condition in the left eye.

Fourth A Photographer

The fourth injured person was a military photographer. He is still on active duty and has "minor difficulty" with one eye when reading.

The department has no other information that it can make public, a spokesman said. It did not identify the injured men.

In a story dated March 20, the Patriot-News said Rep. James A. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) checked the AEC, Air Force and Army, and announced there was "absolutely no foundation" to reports of injuries.

Private Funeral Monday for Col. McCormick

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Col. Robert Rutherford McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune who died Friday after a lingering illness, will be buried Monday on his suburban Wheaton estate.

McCormick died in his sleep at his estate, Cantigny Farm. His wife, Mrs. Maryland McCormick, and a step-daughter were at his bedside. He was 74.

The Tribune announced that private funeral services will be held Monday at Cantigny Farm, and will be conducted by the Rev. Robert Bowman Stewart, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Wheaton.

McCormick, a 1st Division artillery commander in World War I, will be buried on the grounds of his estate with military honors, followed by eight soldiers and a bugler.

The Tribune said memorial services will be held in Chicago Tuesday, at the Fourth Presbyterian Church. The Tribune-owned radio station, WGN, will broadcast the memorial services on a local basis.

McCormick, scion of a great industrial and newspaper family, controlled an empire that included newspapers, paper mills, radio stations, and a television station.

Speculation arose as to who would succeed him as head of the Tribune, and financial circles here believed it might be three Tribune executives referred to by McCormick as "my three lieutenants."

They are Vice President Chester Campbell, Managing Editor Don Maxwell, and Treasurer and Business Manager Howard Wood.

The Tribune said details about McCormick's succession would be announced after his funeral.

Herman Towle to Address County Historical Society

The April meeting of the Saline County Historical society will be held Tuesday, April 5, at 7:30 p. m. at the Mitchell-Carnegie library.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Herman Towle. The subject of Mr. Towle's talk will be "Three-quarters of a Century Around the Square." People of the Harrisburg community will be particularly interested in hearing Mr. Towle. He has been personally acquainted with the personalities and incidents that have made Harrisburg an interesting and progressive city.

April 18 is the 180th anniversary of Paul Revere's Ride. Louis Aaron will give "A Historical Sketch of Paul Revere" and Ray Durham will follow by giving an account of "The Way the Route Looks Today."

A film, "The Bill of Rights" will be shown. This is a beautiful film in technicolor which every American Citizen should see.

Mrs. Madeline Holdaway is chairman of the social hour. Mrs. Ed Heister, Mrs. Ida Choisser, and Mrs. Amelia Aaron are the other members of the committee.

Stassen Balks At Accepting Senate Subpena

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Senate investigators insisted today, they legally served a subpoena on Foreign Aid Director Harold E. Stassen even though he refused to take it.

What started out as a fairly routine investigation of a disputed government contract bloomed into a full-blown row Friday when Stassen balked at accepting the subpoena to produce documents in the case.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee said the subpoena is nevertheless legal and requires Stassen to produce the documents next Wednesday.

A spokesman for Stassen at the Foreign Operations Administration said the former Minnesota governor had planned to go to the Wednesday meeting anyhow and also to a conference Monday with McClellan.

Subcommittee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said a staff member, Robert J. McElroy, approached Stassen in a hallway of his agency Friday with the subpoena. Stassen would not take it.

McElroy tried to put it in Stassen's coat pocket, and in the process, the document touched Stassen fulfilling the legal requirement of service, and fell to the floor, Kennedy related.

McClellan told newsmen he issued the subpoena to be sure of getting all relevant documents in the case. He said he did not issue another subpoena for Stassen to come and testify, because Stassen promised to appear at the Wednesday meeting.

The contract under investigation calls for construction of grain elevators in Pakistan with U. S. aid funds. Stassen told McClellan by letter Friday that the contract has not been let.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) charged that FOA was preparing to let the contract by negotiation instead of competitive bids—and to the highest of five bidders.

"Things like that raise little question marks," said McClellan. "Some things in connection with it need to be cleared up."

But he stressed that he had not passed judgment on the case and did not know whether Stassen made the right decision.

Hits Cost of Building Plant at Joppa

Recommends Bar to Participating in Dixon-Yates Contract

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) today renewed his suggestion that President Eisenhower cancel the Dixon-Yates contract.

Gore acted in the light of a comptroller general's report criticizing Ebasco Services, Inc., the company which is to design the controversial Dixon-Yates power plant at West Memphis, Ark., and supervise its construction.

The report was prepared by Joseph Campbell, newly appointed head of the General Accounting Office who voted for the Dixon-Yates contract while a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

It was the second time this week that Campbell, a former associate of President Eisenhower at Columbia University, criticized administration proposals. He said earlier this week that financing plans for the President's proposed new highway construction program were "unsound" and possibly illegal.

Gore marked up a copy of the Dixon-Yates report and sent it to the President.

Urges Disqualification

"I again respectfully suggest the advisability of withdrawing your personal directive to the Atomic Energy Commission to enter into this uneconomic, unsound, unwise contract," Gore said in a covering letter.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said the GAO report shows that Ebasco "should be disqualified from further work on contracts involving federal government funds."

The report dealt primarily with the work of Ebasco Services in building a steam plant for the government at Joppa, Ill. Gore commented that the project has become known as the "Ebasco fiasco."

The GAO report said actual costs overestimated by about 31 million dollars on the Joppa plant. It said the government also will have to pay about 62 1/2 million dollars over a 25-year period in added power costs.

Doors Cost $400 Each

Among other additional costs and delays highlighted in the report, the GAO singled out a one-story administration building which cost $82 a square foot to build as compared with a $20 to $24 "reasonable" cost.

The report said 29 doors installed in the building cost almost $400 each to buy and install.

The report recommended that Ebasco be barred from participation in the Dixon-Yates contract unless and until it settles its disputes with the government over fees and bills in the Joppa case and guarantees that additional power costs will not result from the Dixon-Yates contract.

In the Joppa case, Ebasco was originally responsible for constructing the plant. At present, Ebasco is said to have the inside track as designer and supervisor with another contractor doing the actual construction work.

Under the controversial Dixon-Yates contract, the Dixon-Yates utility combine will build a 107 million dollar steam generating plant at West Memphis. The plant will transmit power into the government-owned Tennessee Valley Authority system to replace part of the power TVA now supplies to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Floyd Thompson, Former Resident, Dies in Michigan

Floyd Thompson, 63 years of age, died at his home in Berkley, Mich., at 8:10 a. m. today following a long illness.

Mr. Thompson, former resident of Harrisburg, had lived in Berkley for the past nine years and funeral services will be held at the Sawyer funeral home there either Monday or Tuesday. Burial will be at Berkley.

He is survived by his wife, the former Carrie Doolin of Harrisburg who is a sister of Mrs. Arthur Moore. Other survivors include a brother, Arthur Thompson, RFD Harrisburg and a sister, Mrs. Cora Thompson, Carrier Mills.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Alas, that great city, Babylon, that mighty city.—Rev. 18:10. Babylon, once dominated the world. It should have used its wealth and power and advancement to raise humanity. It spent its strength on the silly idea of world empire. It was the second nation to prove the folly of ruling by force. Its ruins are impressive as a monument to folly.

Accurate Reflection

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT. Whether or not the Senate's stock market inquiry is substantially completed, the nation's stock exchanges will proceed now with the assurance that the major verdict—a favorable one—is already in.

Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee conducting the investigation, sees no need to clamp new regulations on the market. He says the inquiry up to this point has turned up no important abuses.

As far as the Senate and the whole Congress go, that is probably it. Possibly the committee will probe farther into the activities of market tipsters and into other specialized phases of exchange operations, but no one apparently imagines this sort of digging will produce anything that will call for sweeping new restrictive laws.

Leaders in U. S. financial circles for the most part did not seem to share Republican Senator Capehart's fear that the inquiry might undermine either the exchanges or the general economy. They suggested considerable good might flow from it.

Here and there an observer could be heard saying, however, that the study up to now has just scratched the surface and that there are a lot of sharp stock trading and promoting practices that need curbing.

But this evidently is distinctly a minority view. The general attitude is that the stock market will be handed a clean bill of health by the committee.

Undoubtedly the Fulbright investigation suffered from its unfortunate plunge into acrimonious politics. The recent drop in stock market prices led Capehart to charge that Fulbright was operating from political motives, and that the inquiry could hurt the country.

It was too bad the Fulbright-Capehart fencing contest developed, for unquestionably it will rob

The final committee report of some of its value.

This was an investigation auspiciously launched with high purposes. It was unique, too, in that it set out to search for possible trouble spots before serious trouble actually had struck. Fulbright is several cuts above the average senator, and it is hard to imagine he had any thought of deliberately making trouble.

It remained for Old Bernard Baruch, himself a veteran stock trader long before he became an elder statesman, to put the stock market in natural perspective. "It's the thermometer—not the fever." In other words, it simply reflects the condition of the country. It's not a motive force. It measures public confidence in our economy.

Three weeks of testimony from economists, traders and others apparently brought Senator Fulbright and most of his colleagues to the conclusion that the stock market is now reflecting with reasonable accuracy the economic prospect ahead for the United States.

As we recall, finding out whether or not this was so was the exact task which the committee set for itself when it undertook the inquiry.

H-Bomb Story Creates a Big Public Relations Problem

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The biggest public relations problem now facing the Eisenhower administration is what to tell the American people about the potential danger of a hydrogen bomb attack on the U. S.

One approach is to scare the wits out of everybody in order to arouse the public to the dangers involved. The purpose of this would be to get some action on adequate civilian defense.

The objection raised to this is an international complication. If the American people start building bomb shelters and laying in reserve food supplies, it might frighten all present anti-Communist allies into a position of complete neutrality.

The second consideration of a purely domestic nature is that defense against the H-bomb is not impossible. By a realistic approach to the problem, it can be licked.

THE FACT OF THE MATTER is that the Atomic Energy Commission's last report on H-bomb danger has not registered.

The general public is just beginning to be conscious of what atomic dust "fall-out" is after an explosion. People are just beginning to ask questions on what to do about it, how to prevent poisoning from radioactive materials, what constitutes a lethal dose and how to get decontaminated.

The almost universal apathy on this subject has been the greatest deterrent to Civil Defense Administration workers who sit up nights planning such things as mass evacuation of cities.

Lack of concern on this matter has not been due to any belief that the whole thing was so devastating and that there is no use trying to do anything about it.

Professional worriers like newspaper columnists, editorial writers and the commentators of think pieces and broadcasts have done a lot of spicing on this subject. They have not had much effect. Public consciousness is often slow to arouse. Congress isn't worried about it. The executive branch of the government lets on that it isn't too worried. Nothing happens.

THERE IS JUSTIFIABLE EVIDENCE, however, that neither the Truman nor the Eisenhower administration have taken the American public into full confidence on the dangers of, and the defenses against, attack by A and H-bombs. Hence the need for a new public relations approach.

One of the commoner theories about this next nuclear war is that the side which first recovers from the initial attack or retaliatory attack will win.

Present thinking is that the United States would not be knocked out by such an attack and that it could recover. It is suggested that the people be told this, emphatically, as well as the scary, bad aspects.

President Eisenhower, in his budget messages, has tried to put more of the responsibility for civilian defense planning on state and local governments, and on private industry. It is recognized, however, that after an H-bomb attack, the responsibility and the cost of recovery would be largely thrown on the national government.

If the cold war and the defeat of communism will take 50 years, one theory is that there is ample time to get prepared for a nuclear weapons attack and that everything possible should be done.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THIS PICTURE is that within the next 50 years, intercontinental guided missiles with nuclear warheads will become a reality. In such an event, any measures short of complete continental defense would become more or less futile.

If there are only four or five years in which to prepare for such an attack, complete defense would be impossible.

There seems to be little prospect now that the federal government will come out with a one-two-three outline of just what every community and every industry should do. There are a few individual actions which are being considered.

One would be a tax amortization plan in the housing field, to induce home owners to build bomb shelters.

Another would be a federal program to place expensive Geiger counters in almost every locality so as to tell people after a bombing attack when their areas are safe and when to evacuate.

The pastor, Rev. James Upchurch, invites the public to attend these services.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)— Exclusively Yours: Marlon Brando advised Marilyn Monroe to learn the whole acting alphabet when they struck up a friendship on the Fox lot several months ago and now Miss Crazy Hips has enrolled at Director Elia Kazan's school of acting in New York.

Maybe Marilyn will bone up on her histrionics in time to really play Grushenka in "The Brothers Karamazov."

Funniest sidelight of all: Marilyn brings her secretary along to classes when there are lectures and has all the acting lore taken down in shorthand.

Such a puzzle with the Edward G. Robinson tribe. He's living at the Bel Air hotel, Gladys is vacationing at Laguna, Edward, Jr., is sleeping in the garage of the Robinson home and his estranged wife, Frances, is dwelling in a small apartment. Only servants live in the big Robinson mansion.

Katherine Hepburn and her brother are starting Londoners by wearing the same outfits—cowboy hats and blue jeans. Constance Dowling made a hurried plane trip to New York to see her sister, Doris. Trouble between Doris and Artie Shaw again?

Vittorio Gassman will realize his wish to see his daughter, Vittoria Gina, when Shelly Winters takes the two-year-old to Rome with her in May for her starring stint in "La Senza." All the bitterness has evaporated between Shelley and her ex-hubby, and they now exchange letters.

He recently sent his daughter a brooch in the form of a gold horse with rubies and diamonds and instructed Shelley to "wear it until Vittorio is 16 and can wear it herself."

Myrna Hansen, Miss USA of '54, plays all of her scenes in U-I's "There's Always Tomorrow" in a baggy dressing gown that covers every curve.

Former silent star Olive Carey, widow of Harry Carey, has decided to go all out in her movie comeback. She's playing Lori Nelson's grandmother in "The Jagged Edge" and told me:

"I wasn't certain about acting again. I didn't want to trade on my husband's name. Then I played a small role in 'Rogue Cop' and Time Magazine gave me a wonderful review. So I said to myself, 'Oh heck, Olive, get yourself an agent.' And here I am."

Background for stardom: This is the story of two boys—a hillbilly singer and a violinist. To keep from starving on the small wages paid him by a Chicago radio station in 1936 the singer frequently played club dates with a four-man musical combo. One night the violinist with the group became ill and another Chicago lad was hired to replace him. The singer and the new fiddler played several club dates together and then new jobs took them in different directions.

Other day they met in Hollywood for the first time in 19 years. Both are now television stars.

The singer—George Gobel. The violinist—Florian Zabach.

Bette Davis' stand-in for "Sir Walter Raleigh" is Edna Mae Jones. A little more than 10 years ago, Edna Mae was under contract to Fox as an actress with strong starring promise.

RUDEMENT

Pre-Easter services will begin at Rudement church Tuesday night with a different preacher each night. Special singing also will be featured. Everyone is invited to attend.

Master Sgt. Waldo Mattingly of New Baltimore, Mich., visited Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Buchanan and R. S. Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee DeNeal and Mr. and Mrs. George DeNeal visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith and Mrs. Madge Santy and daughter, Mary, Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Langford and daughter of Chicago visited his grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Langford, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Foster visited Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Riegel Sunday.

School was dismissed here Monday due to the waterpipes being frozen and burst. There were about two inches of water on the floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Davis and Mrs. Esther McCain and children, all of Gary, Ind., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Nettie Langford and son this week.

The condition of Walter Wilson remains about the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee DeNeal and Mr. and Mrs. George DeNeal visited Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sadler Monday evening.

Our sympathy is extended the Nelson and Norwood families in their recent sorrow.

Voters and Taxpayers of Harrisburg Township

On Tuesday, April 5th, you will go to the polls and elect a Highway Commissioner whose duties will be to repair, maintain and improve the roads and highways of your township.

I am a Candidate for this office and, if elected, I will give the job my full time attention. I will employ only competent and qualified men for the jobs available. Extra work, when needed, will be divided as equally as possible.

I have made no promises of jobs or specific roads to be improved, but it will be my sincere effort to see that the taxpayers of Harrisburg Township receive full value for every tax dollar spent on the township roads and highways.

I favor House Bill No. 380 now before the General Assembly which will permit townships to complete black-top road systems at once with road construction bonds paid from state gas tax allotments. The provisions of this bill will give us an opportunity to resurface our rural roads.

Avery-Wolfson Battle
For M-W Control Will Be Held at Medinah Temple

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The final act in the battle for control of Montgomery Ward & Co. will be held in a circus arena.

The company announced that Medinah Temple, which the Shrine Circus uses, will be the location of the decisive stockholders meeting April 22.

There Ward chairman Sewell Avery and financier Louis B. Wolfson may meet face to face and make their final appeals in the proxy battle for the great mail order concern.

Wolfson, who controls or participates in four large firms with assets of more than 200 million dollars, charges that Avery is "depression-minded" and not aggressively seeking new business.

The Ward management accuses Wolfson of being "depression-minded" and not aggressively seeking new business.

Eight Harrisburg Woman's Club Members Attend Regional Workshops
Eight members of the Harrisburg Woman's club attended the State Federation Regional workshops and program at Giant City State park lodge Thursday, March 31.

The meeting opened with the singing of "For the Beauty of the Earth," "Onward Federation" and "The Old Rugged Cross," all led by Mrs. Harry L. Anderson, Chicago, I. F. W. C. music chairman.

After the welcome by Mrs. L. Goebel Patton, president of the 25th district, a most beautiful and impressive meditation was given by Mrs. Roy Milburn, New Brunswick, president of the 24th district. Mrs. Anderson then sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Elmer R. Luckow, state chairman of Indian affairs from Chicago, gave a short talk about the work of her department. An Indian leader, four Boy Scouts and four Girl Scouts, trained in Indian dances, appearing in Indian costume and make-up, did three dances.

Mrs. E. P. Holman, Belleville, spoke on legislation. Mrs. Joseph Truc, press and publicity, and Mrs. Anderson discussed music. Mrs. Hector and Mrs. Truc are from Chicago.

Noon day luncheon was served on the glassed-in porch of the lodge which overlooks miles of beautiful scenery.

Following the luncheon workshops in the departments spoken of in the morning session were conducted by the various state chairmen with the clubwomen sitting in to gain further knowledge of the federation work.

Mrs. Hector reviewed the book, "Seduction of the Innocent" by Frederick Wertheim, which gave specific incidents and influences of crime, sex and gangster comic books on many youth of our country.

Mrs. Luckow showed interesting colored slides made on her visits to several of the U. S. Indian Reservations and lectured as the pictures were shown.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Eighty-two women from the four districts composing the southern region were in attendance.

Those from Harrisburg were Mrs. J. M. Hart, Mrs. L. B. Kimmel, Mrs. J. A. Musgrave, Miss Bess Pemberton, Mrs. W. H. Farley, Mrs. Nelle Meyers, Mrs. Clyde Pittman, and Mrs. J. L. Miller, president of the Harrisburg club.

Sammy Pollack, 21 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pollack who was taken to the Welborn Baptist Memorial hospital in Evansville, Ind., critically ill yesterday morning, is improving.

Prices Received By Farmers Decrease

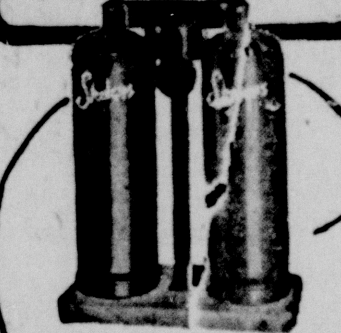

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for crops and livestock fell four-tenths of 1 per cent during the month ended March 15, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The decline left farm prices 5 per cent below a year ago. Farmers' living and production costs rose approximately one-third of 1 per cent in the month.

As a result, farmers' returns in mid-March averaged 86 per cent of so-called fair price parity compared with 87 per cent in mid-February. In mid-March last year, farm prices averaged 90 per cent of parity.

Better Soil Management Increases Corn Yields

M. B. Russell, University of Illinois agronomist, says that corn yields in the Middle West could average 85 bushels per acre instead of the present 50, if farmers used improved soil management practices and had favorable weather conditions.

Russell says the 85-bushel per acre estimate is based on a study by the National Soils Work Group. Average yields imply that some will be far above it and some far below. With an 85-bushel crop, some Corn Belt farmers would harvest 115 to 125 bushels per acre, while other farmers on lower fertility soil would be able to make only 75 bushels.

Boosting corn yields depends to a considerable extent on the individual farm operator, Russell says. Some farmers who see their land only when they put in the crop and again when they harvest it, are in poor position to know their land and to farm it to its greatest potential.

Lack of nutrients is probably the greatest limiting factor in crop production, Russell points out. Rainfall, and the soil's physical condition play an important part.

Farmers can control the nutrient supply, he said, by adding fertilizers based on soil tests. This can help the soil deliver all the nutrients a given crop variety needs to produce its maximum potential number of bushels.

Russell says it is essential for the soil to meet the peak demands of the crops. During the six-weeks from the knee-high to the tasseling stage, the corn crop uses up to 85 percent of the total nutrients needed by the crop for the entire season, Russell reports.

Seed of Dillard, a new medium red clover variety, will be available in limited amounts in 1956.

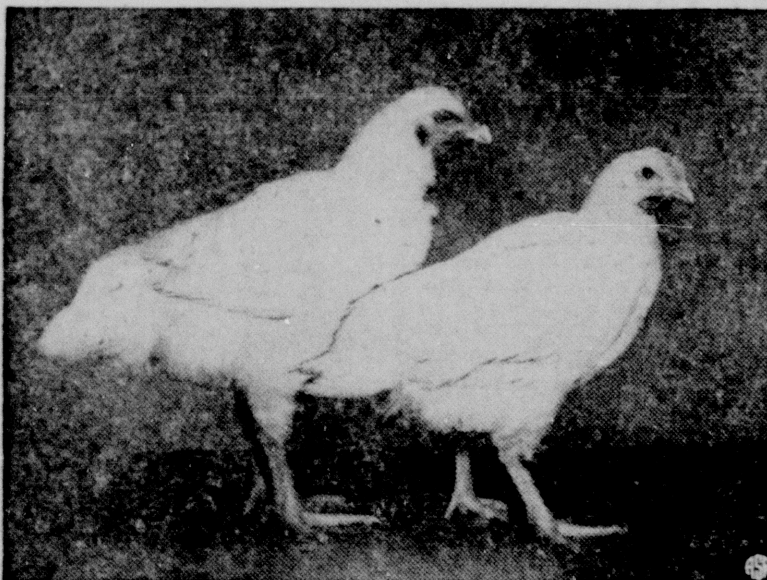

Piper Sudan Does Well in Illinois

Piper outperformed all other Sudan grass varieties in Illinois variational trials last summer. It outyielded all others, had a lower Prussian acid content and stood up well against leaf diseases and chinch bugs.

University of Illinois Agronomist C. N. Hittle reports that Sweet Sudan also showed up well in the tests. It yielded a little below Piper but was not damaged by chinch bugs. It did, however, suffer damage from leaf diseases.

Two other varieties tested ranked much lower than Piper and Sweet Sudan. Common Sudan produced low yields and was severely damaged by both leaf diseases and chinch bugs. A new variety from another state, Greenleaf Sudan, came through with low yields, but it did resist disease and insects. It matures late and it needs further testing before the rest of its performance in Illinois will be known, Hittle says.

Coccidiosis Retards Weight

Recent drug developments have made it possible for the nation's poultrymen to reduce disease losses an estimated $112 million annually from coccidiosis alone, and a big share of this saving has come from birds that weigh more when ready for the market.

The loss from coccidiosis to poultrymen is measured in the value of birds killed by severe outbreaks of the disease; in stunted birds that grow slowly; in fewer good pullets for the laying house; and in extra feed used because of lowered feed conversion.

A new development in the anticoccidial field will probably see more poultry feeds than ever before containing drugs to overcome this costly parasitic disease.

The American Cyanamid Company has announced a more effective blend of its Megalut nitrophenide, which first appeared in 1949 and is the most widely used anticoccidial today.

Both broilers in the photo are ten weeks old. Each was raised under the same conditions, except that the one on the left received Megalut nitrophenide in its feed, the other did not. The drain of the always-present disease of coccidiosis caused the broiler on the right to weigh less—3 lbs., 8 oz.—than the treated bird, which weighed 4 lbs., 6 oz. Both are male birds.

The cost of treating birds with the new preparation is low, Cyanamid spokesmen say. The new Megalut blend, like its predecessor, can be fed continuously to a flock of broilers to prevent the parasitic disease from birth to market weight at a cost of only about one cent per bird. The penny invested invariably comes back many times over, trials show. On the average, the additional profit traceable to the use of a cent's worth of the anticoccidial may run as high as 9.5 cents to 14 cents per bird, figured on a 25-cent market.

THIS WEEK AT Dixon Springs

University of Illinois Experiment Station

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Experiment Station near Urbana in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Spring Is Here

Spring is in the air in southern Illinois. The red bud is budding, jonquils are blooming, the grass is growing and the livestock at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station are going onto pasture. Rye and fescue pastures are tickling the palates of cattle that have been confined to drylot roughage feeding.

It may be necessary to remove stock from the rye pastures from time to time as rainfall softens the ground, but the fescue pastures are firm enough to support the cattle quite well.

Control of Internal Parasites Of Sheep

To control tapeworms, stomach worms and other internal parasites, the ewes at Dixon Springs are being drenched before they go onto pasture. A phenothiazine drench is used about ten days before the pasturing date and a phenothiazine-lead arsenate drench about three days before.

Norris Phelps, sheep herdsman, is preparing a phenothiazine-salt mixture to be used on pasture. This mixture by itself will not control internal parasites, but it will help if used in conjunction with drenching. Norris mixes 100 pounds of salt with ten pounds of phenothiazine powder. This mixture is available at all times to grazing sheep. The drench kills the worms, while the phenothiazine destroys the viability of the eggs.

Sampling of Pastures

With the approaching grazing season, Wayne Mizell, chief sampler at Dixon Springs, is busy making stand counts and taking forage samples on the experimental pastures. By his sampling and stand counts, Wayne is able to determine about what amounts and kinds of forage are available for grazing. Nitrogen Grass Pastures

Ammonium nitrate at the rate of 200 pounds an acre is being top-dressed on grass pastures at the Station. Past experience has taught us that, where phosphorus and potash levels are adequate, we may expect a good return. However, if P and K are low, the returns for nitrogen may be low.

Using Pasture Renovator
A machine designed to renovate thin pasture stands in a once-over operation is being used this week at Dixon Springs. An attempt is being made to establish fescue and lespedeza in a thin stand of alfalfa. This machine opens drill furrows and places the fescue seed and fertilizer (4-16-16) into these furrows. Lespedeza is then band-seeded over the fertilizer.

Soil Compaction
Lee Gard, Dixon Springs irrigation specialist, this week is collecting soil samples from the irrigated pastures, nonirrigated pasture and an ungraded grass area to determine the degree of soil compaction and thus limit forage production. Seeding Oats and Pasture

One small area known as the Keeton tract was seeded this past week to a mixture of oats and pastures. The oats were drilled at the rate of 2 bushels an acre with a seeding of 10 pounds of lespedeza, 5 pounds of red clover, 1 pound of ladino and 3 pounds of redtop. Ammonium nitrate and 48 percent superphosphate were each applied at the rate of 100 pounds an acre. This area has been limed and treated with rock phosphate. The test for potash was high.

George McKibben, station agronomist, says that they are using winter oats in this seeding.

Rolled Seedbed Best for Alfalfa
Observations this past week of alfalfa seedlings made in wheat last fall clearly show that use of the roller seeder for alfalfa after drilling wheat gave much better stands of alfalfa than seeding in the conventional way through the grass seeder of the drill. It appears that the wheat is also better. Yield checks on the wheat under the two methods of seeding should be interesting.

Oaks planted for ornamental purposes are usually far enough apart to keep the oak wilt disease organism from spreading through the root systems of the trees, says a University of Illinois farm forester.

SIU Country Column

By ALBERT MEYER
Wild blackberries have lost the charm they once had as a source of spending money for farm youngsters. The cash returns for effort expended just don't come up to modern needs of youth in this day of high costs of entertainment.

In the face of modern farming methods, good, wild blackberry brambles have had to retreat to old abandoned fields and forested areas. Old rail fences, once a fine spot for growing brambles, have almost disappeared. Good farmers today use wire fences permitting closer cultivation. Crops are rotated more scientifically and pastures are renovated for the production of fine livestock forage rather than weeds and clumps of brambles.

Home picked blackberries, however, are within the reach of anyone having a little garden space. A Southern Illinois university horticulturist says more attention should be given to growing a plot of cultivated blackberries. Better quality berries can be harvested from cultivated vines with much less discomfort and at one-third the labor cost of picking them in the wild state. By using two or three varieties, fresh berries may be harvested for several weeks.

Early Harvest is a recommended early maturing berry for the home garden.

The Brainerd and DeSoto are two other varieties well suited to cultivated production. The fruit is somewhat larger than that of the Early Harvest but matures a little later and continues bearing for a longer time. Plants are large and bear heavily.

After the first season domestic blackberries do not need much cultivation. Thereafter the plot may be mulched heavily with straw or similar material to keep down weeds and protect the plants.

After each bearing season old wood may be pruned out and new plants retained for next year's fruit crop. Brambles have perennial root systems that send up new shoots every year. The tops are biennial.

The blackberry season still stirs certain nostalgic emotions in people, especially if they have a rural background. Many persons are not fooled by warm spring sunshine, keeping their winter clothing handy until the showy white blossoms of roadside blackberry brambles appear. They know that this usually brings a blustery period known as "blackberry winter." However, picking the fruit of the wild blackberry has lost some of its glamor and necessity in this day of supermarket shopping, high speed living, and dining by television.

There are hardy souls, though, who still cling to the custom of picking the wild fruit. For them there is nothing quite like the mouth-watering enjoyment of eating fresh blackberry cobbler, home-canned berries processed in sugar, or richly-flavored wild blackberry jelly served with fluffy hot rolls and biscuits. Persons who have not had this delightful experience do not know what they are missing, these harvesters of berries say.

The vicious attacks of hungry chiggers and mosquitoes fail to deter them. They rub themselves with insect repellent before going or take a salt-water bath upon returning. They arise at dawn to get ahead of the sweltering summer sun, or ignore the streams of perspiration soaking their clothing as the morning hours wane.

The choicest berry vines seem to have the longest thorns for clawing at old clothing and ripping whole skin into a mass of nice red scratches. Snakes are nothing to worry about. They manage to startle the pickers only momentarily as they slither away to safer hiding places.

General Pasture Seeding

Last week the seeding crew broadcast the following mixture at Dixon Springs on a 70-acre general pasture known as the Austin tract: 7 pounds of lespedeza, 4 pounds of Kenland red clover, 1 pound of Ladino, and 2 pounds of sweet clover. This seeding was made on a seeding of 1 bushel of wheat, 7 pounds of orchard grass, 2 pounds of redtop, and 3 pounds of timothy, made last fall. This is one of the common general pasture mixtures used at Dixon Springs.

A study now under way at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station of the University of Illinois in Pope County is designed to find out what effect deep tillage, deep fertilizer placement and various planting methods will have on crop yields.

You can check the spread of oak wilt disease if it gets into your farm woodlands.

Berry Diseases In New Plantings Plague Growers

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Virus diseases and red stele root rot are two problems southern Illinois gardeners and commercial berry growers face in starting and retaining strawberry fields, says Lowell R. Tucker, Southern Illinois university agriculture department horticulturist.

Virus disease infection in berry plants is difficult to detect and hard to combat, he points out. The U. S. Department of Agriculture tests plants for virus by grafting the runners of a commercial variety to that of a known virus-free wild variety that readily dies when infected. If the virus-free plant dies it indicates a diseased commercial variety. If no infection is indicated the commercial plant may be propagated for production of virus-free plants. No varieties immune to virus have been found.

Using virus-free plants, keeping new plantings isolated from infected areas, and spraying for the control of such sucking insects as leaf hoppers and aphids are recommended for reducing losses due to virus diseases.

Red stele root rot becomes more of a problem in tight clay soils than in the looser loess soils. Hence, Tucker says, growers in the hilly areas of southern Illinois have less trouble with this problem than those in the claypan areas farther north.

Red Stele resistant varieties are available for planting. The Vermilion strawberry variety is one of these that is particularly adaptable for use in home gardens, he says. Temple is a resistant commercial variety maturing slightly earlier and producing firmer fruit than Vermilion.

In southern Illinois new spring plantings of strawberries ought to be completed by early April so that the plants will become well established before hot weather and summer drought periods arrive.

A high level of salt, ground corn cobs or low-grade roughages help to prevent overeating disease when you self-feed sheep.

We will be rid of price-depressing corn stocks when we feed them to hogs—and neither sooner nor later, says a University of Illinois farm economist.

Cartoonist Honored by Home Town

J. R. Williams, the man who came out of a machine shop in Alliance, Ohio, to reach the pinnacle of fame as the cartoonist of OUT OUR WAY, now owns a citation awarded to him by the Alliance Chamber of Commerce for bringing honor to his former home town. Presentation was made at a dinner attended by 500 citizens of Alliance.

"For the many bits of fun this noted son of Alliance has provided for us, we are grateful," read the citation, "and as a mark of our gratitude, we send this citation to J. R. Williams in tribute to his success in the field of friendly caricature. All of us in Alliance have enjoyed his humorous, down-to-earth cartoons."

Jim Williams came to Alliance as a boy in his teens, attended Mt. Union College briefly, then learned the machinists' trade at the Morgan Engineering Co. and the Alliance Machine Co.

It was while working for Alliance Machine that he wrapped up a bundle of drawings and sent them to NEA Service in Cleveland. He was hired immediately.

A few months later, in March of 1922, the first OUT OUR WAY cartoon appeared in newspapers. Today some 700 daily papers including The Daily Register carry the feature.

Sour milk, or buttermilk, was used in the process of bleaching cloth, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

CASUALTY LOSSES ARE DEDUCTIBLE

In just thirteen more days it will be April 15th and most of us will have made our annual peace with Uncle Sam in some fashion or other.

Before finally laying aside your ultra sharp pencil and consoling yourself with that famous last line of the decadent strip tease artist that you have "Taken off all the law allows" it would be well to remember that you can deduct for an uncompensated casualty loss even though it was a personal one and did not occur in a trade or business.

For example, an individual can deduct the loss arising from the total or complete destruction of his home, his summer cottage, his pleasure automobile, or his household furniture, by fire, storm, shipwreck or other casualty.

The term, other casualty, has been held to include such things as automobile accidents, long and unusual drought resulting in subsoil shrinkage, residential damage as a result of explosion in nearby quarry, damage by bursting hot water boiler, all kinds of flood damage, damage to trees and shrubs by freezing and damage to floors and furniture resulting from water pipes in residence freezing and bursting (repairs to pipes not deductible).

If you had a loss of this nature and wish to deduct it, and who wouldn't, it will be necessary to report your income on Long-Form 1040. If you have any trouble in arriving at the amount of your allowable deduction the Robertson-Ghent Insurance Agency will gladly help you estimate your loss without any obligation.

GFWC Officials to Attend Bald Knob Easter Services

The Easter sunrise service on Bald Knob this year will be a special event, Wayman Presley, executive secretary of the Bald Knob Christian Foundation, announces.

The service will begin with a torch light, cross-bearing procession at 5 a. m. The program will last until 6 a. m. and everyone is invited to attend.

Four prominent national figures in the General Federation of Women's clubs will speak briefly in addition to the regular program. They are Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, president of the worldwide group of women; Mrs. J. Hugh Knox, national chairman of Religion; Mrs. Albert E. Powers, home chairman, Illinois Federation Women's club, and Mrs. Suderland, first vice president of the Illinois division. Mrs. Knox is from Nashville, Tenn.

A banquet honoring the visiting ladies will be held in the lodge at Giant City park Saturday evening, April 9, at 6:30. Dinner will be $1.75 and reservations may be had by writing Lester Biggs at Cobden, Ill.

The foundation has printed and distributed several tons of literature and collection envelopes to the 18,600 women's clubs for redistribution. Mr. Presley reports the first mails brought contributions from 44 states to the $3,000,000 campaign for the huge cross on Bald Knob.

From the board of trustees of 115 members there has been elected a governing board of ten persons who work with Presley for the campaign: They are: C. Lester Biggs, Cobden, chairman; E. D. McGuire, Makanda, treasurer; James Deal, Murphysboro; Warren Hastings, Villa Ridge; Mrs. Jannie C. Gentry, Carterville; Mrs. Jennie C. Gentry, Carterville; Rev. W. H. Lirley, Jonesboro; Jerome Lutz, Anna, and William Planert, Unity.

Presley urges everyone in southern Illinois to support the campaign.

Southwest Cleans Up After Dust Storm

DALLAS, Tex. — The great Southwest began cleaning up today after its "worst dust storm in 25 years."

There was still an inkling of the dust in the air but it had moved into Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi and was blowing itself out. Only a trace of dust remained at Longview, Tex., where Friday visibility got down to a quarter of a mile.

Southwestern Public Utility Co. of Oklahoma made an early estimate of the damage.

Manager Grady Thompson of the utility firm said damage in the panhandle would run to $500,000 and called it the "worst in 25 years."

But the air over the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles, southwestern Kansas, southeastern Colorado and southeastern New Mexico, where the dust originated, became pure again Friday night.

Residents of Texas and other states which had shut up against the dust piles, shake out the curtains, and shine up the automobiles.

The clear air came as a welcome relief after dust, stirred up by an unseasonal cold front, boiled up to 21,000 feet, reduced visibility at some points to zero, and turned snowflakes into cold, slimy mudballs. Breathing also became difficult.

Surgery and radiation by X-ray or radium are the only approved means of curing cancer today.

Contributions for the cross, campaign for the cross. Contributions may be mailed to The Cross, Cairo, Ill.

Eldorado Wins Dual Meet at West Frankfort

The Eldorado high school track team opened its 1955 season Friday afternoon with a 70½ to 52½ dual meet victory over West Frankfort. The meet was held on the losers' field.

Eldorado, undefeated in dual competition during the past three seasons won the final two events to pile up a safe margin.

The winners displayed exceptional strength in the mile run, with Frank Willis, Woods, Watson and Leonard Willis finishing in that order. The winning time was 4:46.1, considered very good for this early in the season.

F. Willis came back to cop the half-mile in 2:11.6. Other winners were Johnny Dodd in the 100 and 200 yard dashes. He was trailed by Gwaltney in both events. Lovellette took top honors in the discus and shot put. Laffoon placed third in the discus.

Other Eldorado points were scored as follows: Stutke second in high hurdles; Sutton second, Lane third in 440; Gwaltney third in low hurdles.

Wright first, Dempsey tie for third in high jump; Potts third in pole vault; Eldorado first in the two varsity relays.

BOATS AND OUTBOARD MOTORS . . . Insurance

NOW . . . Broad Form Insurance on Boats and Outboard Motors covering "all risks" of loss or damage.

Here's the complete protection you want against fire, theft, collision, loss of motor overboard, and other loss or damage under the new "all risks" insurance policy. Boats, outboard motors and miscellaneous equipment, including boat carrier or trailer, may be insured under this BROAD FORM coverage at a fraction of replacement cost.

The BROAD FORM policy insures small boats (other than inboard motor boats) and outboard motors, while afloat or ashore, anywhere in the Continental United States and Canada. There are a few reasonable exclusions under the BROAD FORM policy such as wear and tear, gradual deterioration, mechanical breakdown, and similar uninsurable hazards which are excluded under standard "all risks" policies.

RESTRICTED FORM COVERAGE

If limited protection against fire, theft, windstorm, collision, and loss of motor overboard fits your needs, the RESTRICTED FORM coverage can be written on your boat and outboard motor at a lower rate.

Walt Dropp Hits Grand Slam Homer as White Sox Beat Cards, 9-0, in Six Innings

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox sacrificed defense for offense when they acquired first baseman Walt Dropp, and it appears today they got what they bargained for.

Dropp, obtained by the deal which sent Ferris Fain to the Detroit Tigers, blasted a grand slam homer—his second roundtripper in as many games—Friday to lead the White Sox to a six-inning, 9-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was halted by rain.

Sandy Consuegra, a 16-game winner last season, pitched the full game for the White Sox and allowed only three hits. Harvey Hadix and Herb Moford were the victims of the White Sox' 10-hit attack.

The teams continue their series today with the White Sox showing an 8-10 spring record and the Cardinals all square at 10-10.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

Milwaukee Braves Are Deep In Everything—including Bum Ankles

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (NEA)—The Braves have the big ballplayer in Eddie Mathews. They have the big pitcher in Warren Spahn, and the biggest attendance in baseball.

They also have big problems in the repaired ankles of Bobby Thomson and Henry Aaron. Thomson and Aaron tell you the right ankles that were broken last season are quite all right, then limp out to their positions practically on one leg.

So the Milwaukee club is deep everywhere, including bum ankles. Still, it is so well balanced that the third time could be the charm. With all its bad luck last trip, Suds-when the Braves were beaten only by the rampaging Dodgers in 1953, now is nothing more than a replacement for O'Connell. When O'Connell's sprained small of the back forced the Paterson Irishman to sleep on a board, Charley Grimm worked Aaron at second base, where the quiet lad of Mobile was stationed while leading the Sally league in everything but hotel accommodations.

Roy Smalley further backs up the infielders and George Crowe, a large first baseman who manufactured 34 home runs for Toledo, is being retained as the Braves' edition of Dusty Rhodes.

Look for Mathews, the expectant father, to have a tremendous year and for Adcock to keep right on going. Aaron should up on two good forebays. Del Crandall is 23 pounds lighter than a year ago and throwing like he did when he first came up.

Towering Gene Conley is expected to join Spahn as a 20-game winner. The third, fourth and fifth pitchers are Lew Burdette, Bob Buhl and Chet Nichols, the latter pair bent on comebacks which should be successful at their ages and with their stuff. John Quinn asked for waivers of Jim Wilson, but now is thankful that no one claimed the 33-year-old right-hander who last season fashioned a no-hitter against the Phillies.

Humberto Robinson, a skinny Panamanian side-armed who copped 23 in the Sally league with a remarkable 243 strikeouts and an earned-run average of 2.41, is the ville missed by no more than eight games, and the Tribe would not be the first club rooted to a penant.

There are a lot of runs in the middle of the Braves' batting order, where swing the great Mathews, Thomson, Joe Adcock and 21-year-old Hank Aaron, the most under-publicized young player of the game. They swing behind the speedster, Bill Bruton, and Danny O'Connell, an expert at hitting behind the runner. And the tail-end of the order is hardly composed of All-America outs with Johnny Logan, one of the superior shortstops, and Del Crandall, who swats for distance.

You get a fair idea of this club's bench when Andy Pafko is crowded out of the outfield, where Jim Pendleton and Chuck Tanner, who batted .323 for Atlanta, are other reserves.

SENATORS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT OVER REDS

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen has been shouting all spring that the Washington Senators will be a strong team this year—and the Cincinnati Redlegs are just about ready to take his word for it.

The Senators made it three straight victories over the Redlegs and five in six meetings this spring Friday when a three-run rally in the ninth inning gave them a 5-4 verdict at Wardsboro, S. C. Pinch-hitter Tom Umpflett's single capped a two-out rally of four straight hits.

Ted Kuszewski blasted a homer and two doubles for the Redlegs.

FORD FAILS IN NINE-INNING ATTEMPT

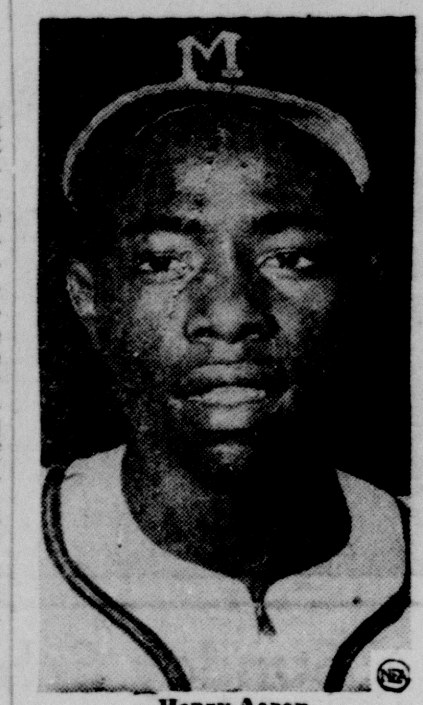

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Whitney Ford, who is scheduled to pitch the opener for the New York Yankees, tried to be the first big league hurler to go nine innings Friday night against the Atlanta Crackers, but had to withdraw with two out in the ninth.

Sore-arm Don Larsen came in with the bases loaded, and Bob Thorpe doubled off his first pitch, completing a four-run rally which beat the Yankees, 5 to 4.

Ford fanned nine men, and until the ninth, looked good. Jim Solt's second inning homer was the only damaging blow off Ford until his collapse.

Vejar Jabs Out 10-Round Victory Over Billy Graham

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Young Chico Vejar, buoyed by his second straight victory over former challenger Billy Graham, today was hunting bigger game in the welterweight division—including newly-crowned champion Tony De Marco.

Although admittedly a little fat and sluggish, Vejar jabbed his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Graham Friday night only minutes before De Marco won the 147-pound title from Johnny Saxton at Boston.

The deeply-tanned New York University art student was pleased over his repeat nationally-televised victory over the ring-wise Graham and so was his manager, Steve Ellis.

Vejar enjoyed both a big age and weight advantage over Graham, and he exploited both to the hilt. The 23-year-old Stamford, Conn., fighter weighed 154½ pounds, while 32-year-old Graham scaled 149½.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Ed Lissak, big senior on this season's Eldorado high school cage team, paced his mates in the free throw department. Coach Al Adams has given out figures showing that Lissak hit at a .770 average, with 74 successful throws in 96 attempts.

Lissak's name will be engraved on a free throw trophy that occupies a place of honor in the ETHS trophy case. Recognizing the school's top scorer from the free throw line was started about eight seasons ago.

Adams stressed the importance of the free throw in today's type basketball game with the bonus rule in effect. He pointed out that it wasn't unusual for a team to win, even though outscored from the field. Adams also predicted that as long as the bonus rule remained on the book, more teams would take to playing a slower, deliberate game, especially on defense. The old rushing, man-to-man defense brings about more fouling and coaches will have to keep their team away from fouls to win.

The Eldorado team had a total of 380 fouls called against it, compared to 483 by the opposition. This would give the Eagles a possible 206 additional free throws, with the bonus rule.

Eldorado won a total of 18 games, in 26 starts, during the season. Included in the record were six victories and only two losses in eight games against Saline county foes and four wins in six starts against teams from the South Seven conference.

This about completes the 1954-55 basketball season, at least as far as I am concerned. After the playing, comes the knife-and-fork part of the schedule. I went down to Carrier Mills about two weeks ago and then to Eldorado last Wednesday for the banquet. Sure good eatin'. Hope to go again next year!

Gene Barrett, former Eldorado high school athlete who transferred to Carbondale before the start of school last fall, is being counted on to pick up some points in track for Carbondale. Barrett is a 440-yard dashman. The Carbondale coach has a squad of 45 performers, including 11 lettermen.

Baseball, usually referred to as the national game, is about to get another season underway. The big leagues start with games at Cincinnati and Washington April 11 and the following day there will be a full schedule. The Pacific Coast league opens Tuesday, April 6, the following day the Texas league starts. Thirty-three minor leagues will operate this year with the May 3 date of the Kitty league the latest listed.

Ex-Boxer is Sought in Two Evansville Slayings

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Two detectives were armed today with an order to bring back "dead or alive" an ex-boxer wanted in connection with a double slaying, two of nine killings in this area recently which remain unsolved.

Police Chief Kirby Stevens assigned the detectives to search full-time for August Gerbitz, 30. He also ordered 5,000 "wanted" circulars distributed.

Gerbitz is wanted for questioning in connection with the killing of Mrs. Nadine Martin, 21, and George Temme, 39, last December. Police said Gerbitz was separated from his wife and children and was dating the Martin woman.

He allegedly told friends he killed Temme and Mrs. Martin in her apartment. He has been missing since shortly after the slayings.

Meanwhile, Indiana and Kentucky authorities were asked to watch for a sadistic attacker who tied a 14-year-old boy to a post in a barn near Marion, Ohio, and beat him into unconsciousness.

Authorities said the assailant tied Jerry Shelton's hands behind him and looped some of the twine around his neck. He then beat the boy unconscious with his fists.

Police noted similarities between the attack and a series of slayings in Indiana and Kentucky. Victims of the unsolved slayings included three members of a Henderson, Ky., farm family, two persons killed in the rest rooms of Evansville business places, a truck lines manager whose body was found in Henderson county, a Mount Vernon farm wife, and Mrs. Martin and Temme.

$90,000 Fire Kills 13 Horses At Aurora Downs

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—An estimated $90,000 fire at Aurora Downs killed 13 harness horses. It was the second mysterious fire in a week at the track.

C. F. Rumley, 77, Princeton, Ill., lost 9 of his 15 horses in the flames including Dale Wingay, for which Rumley had rejected an offer of $10,000 last Monday.

G. W. Ault lost three horses, and Al Washington Jr. lost one — Bridesmaid. Bridesmaid had survived the first fire at Aurora Downs.

Eight horses died in the March 24 blaze, and authorities were still trying to determine the cause.

President Andrew Jackson, because of his unusual number of congressional bill vetoes, was known as "Sir Veto."

Dairy Brands, Tastee Freez to Meet in Title Tilt of Tourney

Dari-Bar and Dorrisville Will Play for Third

The Carrier Mills Tastee Freez and Harrisburg Dairy Brands will meet in the championship game of the independent basketball tournament being staged at Carrier Mills. Tip off time for the title tilt is listed for 8:30 this evening.

They won their way into the final game by winning over the Carrier Mills Dari-Bar and Dorrisville Social Brethren teams respectively. The losing teams in last night's play met at 7 tonight for third place.

Tastee Freez, paced by Garrison Newsom's 31 points, defeated Dari-Bar 88-82. Dairy Brand, with Frank Logsdon pitching in 36 points, won over Dorrisville 67-64 in an overtime.

The Tastee Freez-Dari-Bar game was a battle all the way, with fouls and free shooting making the difference.

Dari-Bar was called 32 times for fouling and Tastee Freez only 22 times. At the free throw line Tastee Freez had a 36-20 advantage, which offset Dari-Bar's 31-26 edge in field goal shooting.

Dari-Bar had only seven players suited up and lost three via the foul route, finishing the game with four players.

At the quarter Tastee Freez led 22-21. The score was knotted 42-42 at the half. After three quarters Dari-Bar was on top 62-61. In the last frame Tastee Freez scored 27 and held Dari-Bar to 20, winning 88-82.

Dairy Brand jumped off against

Dorrisville to take a 20-14 quarter lead, but at half time Dorrisville led 30-29. At the three quarter mark Dairy Brands were in front 47-45, then Dorrisville held a two point fourth-quarter edge and the score was knotted 62-62 at the end of regulation time. In the overtime period Logsdon of Dairy Brands hit for five points to give his team the victory, 67-64.

The scoring—Tastee Freez, Clarida 6, Lissak 6, V. Newsom 11, Spottsville 20, G. Newsom 31, Berns 12 and Sweet 2; Dari-Bar, Culbreth 14, Blackman 14, Orto 15, Upchurch 14, Pulliam 11, Sam Duane 13 and Cowger 1.

Dairy Brands, Zeigler 2, Logsdon 36, Romonosky 6, Foster 17, Stout 0, Henshaw 6 and Speaks 9; Dorrisville, Harrison 25, Killman 21, Logan 2, Webb 6 and Byron 10.

Red Sox to Start Season Without Williams

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Faye Thronberry, 23-year-old returning serviceman, was named Ted Williams' replacement today as the Boston Red Sox for the first time planned to start the season without the great slugger.

Manager Mike Higgins told a press conference he "expected to see Williams in Sarason," but now "must go along with the assumption that he won't be with us."

Higgins, clubowner Tom Yawkey and general manager Joe Cronin have expected Williams to report since spring training started on March 1.

"Ted hasn't called the club and I guess he hasn't reached a decision as to whether he's going to retire," Higgins said. "Thronberry's play has been the most pleasant surprise of the training season. I had no idea what he'd be able to do and he sure has done well."

Thronberry has batted .285 and led the Red Sox in hits and runs batted in while they compiled an 11-8 Grapefruit League record.

Johnny Orlando, the Red Sox' clubhouse attendant and a close friend of Ted, has shipped Williams' personal equipment to Fenway Park in Boston. The Red Sox are still hoping that Ted will report to them when they reach Boston. The club is holding Williams' No. 9 uniform open against this possibility.

Eldorado Indies Play Springton in Tourney Final Tonight

The Eldorado Indies will battle Springton tonight for the championship of an independent basketball tourney being played at Brownsville.

Eldorado went into the final round with an 87-44 victory over Brownsville. Springerton beat Herald in the other semifinal game.

Spring IS A MIRACLE

Spring is so much more than just a season. It is a miracle, enacted against a backdrop of perfect days. It is the time of rebirth... of reaffirmation.

Spring is Christ's story, beautifully illustrated by nature. It is all the teachings of the Church, brought to reality, spread out gloriously for you to see. Nature, in her sweet, new loveliness, touches the world, touches you with the Christ-like spirit. If your vision has been dulled, she gives you the chance to see again more brightly than ever.

Palm Sunday is here again. Never before have the doors of the church seemed to stand quite so open... so ready to receive you. Never has the lesson of everlasting life... Christ's lesson... been so poignant. There will be new richness in your life if you will trust in the Church. In your soul there can be eternal spring, and all the bleakness, questioning and doubt can be erased from your heart forever.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The Cross and The Christian'

John 12:20-26; II Cor. 5:14-19
GOLDEN TEXT: "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world." (Gal. 6:14)

INTRODUCTION: In this lesson we come to the Cross of Jesus Christ, and next Sunday we study about the empty tomb and the resurrection. These two lessons end the series which began last January. During this time we have studied the origin of the Bible, the doctrines of God, Christ, the Holy Spirit and Christian living. It is quite proper that this series close with the Cross and the resurrection.

I JESUS AND HIS CROSS

(John 12:20-24)
When Jesus was born, wise men came from the East to visit him. It is interesting to note that just before his death "certain Greeks" from the East came saying to Philip, "Sir, we would see Jesus."
It is always a worthy act on the part of any person to seek Jesus. This is as true today as it was when these Greeks came seeking him. No doubt they had grown tired of the worship of many gods in their home country. They were tired of sin and weary of constant dissatisfaction. They were hungry for peace of mind. Therefore, they came to Philip and said: "Sir, we would see Jesus."

Friend, are you tired of sin? Are you weary of worshipping other gods? (Whatever you put first in life is your god!) Then, why not come and seek Jesus? He has never been known to turn anyone away who has honestly sought him.
II THE CHRISTIAN AND SERVICE (John 12:25-26; II Cor. 5:14-16)
Christ saves you that you may serve him. Had he not intended that you serve him, he would have taken you on to heaven immediately after you became a Christian. Life comes through death. As Jesus says here, a corn of wheat must fall to the ground and die before it can bring forth much fruit. Just so, a person must die to self and live for Christ, if he is to bear Christian fruit. We have the promise here from Jesus that: "If any man serve me, him will my father honor." What more could we ask?

III CHRIST IS THE ANSWER
(II Cor. 5:17-19)
He is the answer to the sin problem in your life. You are already condemned to die (John 3:18), and that death is eternal. Christ comes to make it possible for you to have every sin of your whole life forgiven. Through him you can become a "new creature." "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." (Isaiah 1:18)

CONCLUSION: Christ bore all the agony of Gethsemane and Calvary's Cross that you might be saved from eternal hell, and that you might become a "new creature" and live a decent Christian life. In addition he bore it all that you might have an abundant entrance into eternal life with him. Some men around the Cross taunted him by saying: "Others he saved, himself he cannot save." They were right in that if he had come down from the Cross he would have been easy. The difficult thing was to hang there and bear your sins and mine. He is a worthy and wonderful Saviour!
